CROYDON MAN NOT FIT TO BE AT LARGE, SAYS JUDGE BOYER

Severely Reprimands Joseph Taylor Who Set Brother Afire

CLAIMS HE WAS DRUNK

Says Argument Took Place Over "Split" of Money Between Two

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—"You have no common sense and are a dangerous man to be at large," Judge Calvin S. Boyer told Joseph Taylor, twenty-three, of Croydon, yesterday after Taylor had pleaded guilty to throwing kerosene on his brother, George, and then tossing a match at him.

Taylor was sentenced to the county prison for a term of not less than three months or more than one year and fined $5 and costs. The prison officials were directed to watch Taylor closely to ascertain whether he is mentally balanced.

County Detective Antonio Russo, of Bristol, testified that Taylor at one time threatened to cut off Constable Thomas Crawford's head with an axe.

On the witness stand Taylor said that he and his brother did not "hit it too well" and that his brother has tormented him for a long time. The day he tossed the kerosene on him and then set fire to him with a match there had been an argument over a "split" in some money that the brother had just received.

Taylor admitted that both he and his brother who was burned about the feet and legs, had been drinking.

"You can buy liquor anywhere in the Croydon section," the defendant told District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn.

Howard Bethel, twenty-two, of Newtown, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of assault and battery committed on his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bethel. Bethel testified that he was drunk at the time and did not know that he hit his mother.

Mrs. Bethel, an aged woman, said that her son struck her one morning about 3.30 as she was in bed. He came home drunk, she said, and hit her twice in the face with his fists. She had supported him for a year during the time he was out of work and kept him in money to buy cigarettes. Mrs. Bethel said that she had warned her son many times to stop running about with a "bang" in Newtown that she described as bad.

"What do you think of yourself, beating up your mother?" Judge Boyer asked Bethel. "You ought to go to jail for the maximum term that I could give you."

A sentence of not less than one month or more than one year in the county prison was imposed on Bethel.

Twelve Grammar Students To Finish at Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, June 2.—There will be 12 girls and boys who will receive certificates of promotion when graduation exercises for the eighth grade of the Hulmeville-Middleton public school are held here on Wednesday evening, June 10th.

The program will be conducted in Henry's Hall, the speaker being Rev. Waldo Parker, rector of St. James's Episcopal Church, Langhorne. Principal E. H. Burd has been instructor of this class during the past term, as well as having the seventh grade under his jurisdiction.

The final session at the local school will be held on Friday, June 12th, the fall term being scheduled to open in September.

GOVERNMENT ACTION TO END CONTROVERSY OF CHURCH AND STATE IN ITALY NOW IMMINENT

By Guglielmo Emanuel
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

ROME, June 2.—Government action to end the controversy between State and Church appeared imminent today.

The directorate of the Fascist party was expected to outline a program of conciliation toward the Vatican at a meeting over which Premier Benito Mussolini was to preside. The session of party leaders follows the special consistory of twenty-four Cardinals yesterday at which Pope Pius XI. insisted that the Lateran Treaty and the Concordat be upheld and maintained.

Rome today anxiously awaited the meeting at which it was understood the Government's policy would be outlined and further explanation of its actions during the past few days be afforded.

It was understood playgrounds operated in the capital by the American Knights of Columbus would be reopened today. They were closed on Saturday by the decree that locked the

SCHUMACHER POST WILL MAKE DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Money Desired to Complete Payments on Home Being Purchased

CANVASS LARGE AREA

CROYDON, June 2.—A drive for funds to complete payments on the new home for which negotiations were recently made, is to be made by Joseph A. Schumacher Post, 1597, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

The drive will start tomorrow, with a committee of 12 men making visits to homes. The committee will be divided into six groups, two men making the calls together. Each will be equipped with a badge and a book of receipts.

The new post home in question is a spacious old stone farmhouse located near the Badger School on State Road. The Schumacher post recently made the down payment, and the veterans desire to complete the amount due as soon as possible. At their last meeting a decision was reached to ask friends to cooperate in the movement. Residents of Maple Shade, Croydon, Newportville, West Bristol and Bensalem Township will be asked to donate any sum they feel they can give.

The post which was organized about two years ago has had headquarters in another building near State Road, but this has proved inadequate. The veterans of foreign war ask that residents of the sections designated be prepared to make donations when the committeemen call. Receipts will be provided, donations will be published in the newspapers, and those assisting will have the satisfaction of having helped a most worthy cause.

GIFT CAMPAIGN CLOSES SATURDAY; USING SEALED BALLOT BOX NOW

Close of Third Period Finds Workers Set for Final Dash; Candidates Must Check Up and Verify Totals By Thursday, the 4th

The Courier's $10,000 Gift Distribution has now entered the fourth and last period. On the stroke of eight next Saturday night the campaign will come to a close.

The windup of the third period last night saw most entrants primed for the dash down the home stretch. Thousands of votes from subscriptions and coupons were earned by the candidates.

The final published standing will be printed Wednesday or Thursday. Votes earned during this final week will not be known until the close of the campaign because returns will not be made to the campaign department but will be placed in the sealed ballot box which will be in the Bristol Trust Company.

In this way, the standing of the candidates as the race closes will be known to no one, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and gives everyone an equal opportunity for the rich prizes.

Attention, Candidates

Full details and instruction regarding the closing of the campaign are published elsewhere in this issue and it is the duty of every candidate to become familiar with them. While no further subscriptions or votes will be accepted at campaign headquarters, reports being placed in the ballot box, campaign headquarters will be open all week up to 8 p. m., to issue supplies, give information and check up campaign accounts to the end of the third period.

Every candidate is required to check up and compare his or her records to the end of the third period with those of the management and verify and attest to the correctness of them, both as regards total votes earned and gross sales reported.

Remittances in Cash

All remittances for subscriptions turned into the ballot box this final week must be in the form of cash, money order, bank draft or certified check for the full amount to cover, except that personal checks to the amount of not to exceed $18.00 will be accepted provided no two checks are signed by the same person. This rule is made in fairness to all concerned and will be strictly adhered to.

The final period schedule offers every candidate exactly the same vote making opportunities. There are no final favors, inducements or advantages.

ASPARAGUS EXHIBITION WILL COMMENCE TODAY

Fourth Annual Show is Being Held at Morrisville

CASH PRIZES AWARDED

MORRISVILLE, June 2.—For two days, commencing this afternoon, the fourth annual Bucks County Asparagus Show is being held.

The exhibition scene is in the Oriole Building, East Bridge street. The displays will be open to the public this afternoon and evening, and tomorrow afternoon and night.

Judging this afternoon will be conducted by Walter H. Nissley, extension specialist in vegetable gardening, State College, and C. K. Hollowell, county agent of Philadelphia County.

The following prizes will be given: Single bunch, first prize, $5.00; second prize, $4.00; third prize, $3.00; fourth prize, $2.00; fifth prize, subscription to the Morrisville Herald.

At a late hour refreshments were served. The little hostess was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Interest Rates Are Reduced by Banks

PERKASIE, June 2.—Effective July 1, eight upper Bucks county banks returned from a 4 percent to a 3 percent basis on savings deposits, following a decision of bank officials here last week.

Nearly two years ago it was decided to pay four percent with the belief the increased rate would greatly increase the total of savings accounts. This, however, has failed to materialize, with the result that to continue bank efficiency in this area, reduction of the rate was made.

The move also follows the recommendation of the American Bankers Association as well as by the largest banks of eastern cities. The following are the banks that have decided to make the change: Perkasio Trust Company, Perkasio National Bank, First National and Merchants National of Quakertown and Quakertown Trust Company, Riegelsville First National, Coopersburg, and Sellersville National Bank.

DR. RALCY H. BELL, NEW HOPE WRITER AND DOCTOR, VICTIM OF SHOT SET FOR BURGLARS; BELIEVED DEAD FEW DAYS

Several Traps Had Been Arranged About the House—Friends Think Author Had Forgotten About Gun—Caretaker Finds the Body on Floor of Sycamore Lodge

NEW HOPE, June 2.—Death of Dr. Ralcy Husted Bell, 62, a former physician and a well-known author, resulted when a shotgun placed as a trap for burglars was fired in the writer's home here.

The body of Dr. Bell was found upon the floor of his summer home, Sycamore Lodge, in the heart of the artists' colony at Centre Bridge, near here, early last evening. The right side of his chest had been torn by gunshot, and according to Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks county coroner, Dr. Bell had been dead for three or four days.

Dr. Bell, who some years ago had been greatly annoyed by unwelcome visitors to his estate, took great precautions to avoid intrusion or robbery. He had a heavy barbed wire fence erected around his property, posted it with warning signs, and as an extreme measure placed shotguns in closets in the house and in the garage, so arranged that they would be discharged at a stranger opening the door.

PINCHOT ATTACKS POWER TRUSTS AND UTILITIES

Refuses to Be Held in Confines of "Non-Controversial Subjects"

WORDS NOT MINCED

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 2.—Governor Gifford Pinchot, irrepresible through 25 stormy years in politics, shattered the placid serenity of the annual conference of governors today with a slashing attack on the power trust and the great utilities interest.

Refusing to be held within the narrow confines of "non-controversial subjects," which are all the conference has heard to date, Gov. Pinchot lashed out at the utilities with both hands. He pictured the power trust as a giant octopus which is progressively swallowing the American people, and, if uncontrolled, will completely dominate political and economic life in this country in a few years.

Gov. Pinchot didn't mince words. He accused the utilities of "graft" in their relationship to the public.

"I call it graft," he said, "and I am well within my right. Through the device of the write-up, the electric utilities alone are today collecting from the people of Pennsylvania interest on much more than $100,000,000 that was never put into the business."

By the same methods, he asserted, the electric power interests are taking half a billion dollars a year from the nation as a whole.

Gov. Pinchot delivered his speech after the executive of the governors' conference had deliberated long and earnestly about it. They didn't want anything "controversial" injected into the socially pleasant atmosphere of the party. But the Pennsylvanian held the whip hand. He let it be known that if they didn't let him speak his mind he would issue the speech as a statement and say that "here is what I would have said to the governors if they had not gagged me."

Under the circumstances, the managers decided it would be better to allow him to speak than to put themselves in the position of not being willing to hear him.

Another "controversial" subject was to be thrown into the conference late (Continued on Page 6)

The author, who was unmarried, spent the week-ends at Centre Bridge through much of the year, and about the first of June each year he moved from New York to the artists' colony for the summer. Authorities believe that when he went to the lodge last Friday he forgot about the trap, swung open the closet door in the living room and was instantly killed.

Ollie Major, a caretaker at the place, went to the lodge last night and was surprised to find an accumulation of mail in the mailbox at the end of the long lane leading to the house. Gathering it up, he went to the house and found Dr. Bell's body. State Police were notified and Dr. Sweeney examined the body and had it removed to a Doylestown morgue.

Dr. Bell's cousin, Dr. Fred Milloux, of 314 West 88th street, New York City, was notified, and he is expected to take charge of the body.

Dr. Bell was born and raised in New York. He was a student at Dartmouth, Bowdoin Medical College, and Atlanta Medical College, and he also studied medicine in Paris. He practiced in New York until about ten years ago, when he gave up his medical career and devoted his time to literature and travel.

He was the author of eight outstanding books, including "Women From Bondage to Freedom," "Philosophy of Painting," "Religion of Beauty," "Worth of Words" and "Changing Values of English Speech." He also wrote a poem, "Words of the Wood."

Dr. Bell's summer residence was one of the show places of the artists' colony. While he frequently entertained at the Centre Bridge home, he shunned strangers who wanted to visit the place.

Dr. Sweeney said last night that there was no evidence of foul play and issued a certificate of accidental death. With State police he will make a search of the lodge today for other burglar traps.

TIME

Man spends much thought and effort in devising ways and means of saving time. Virtually all inventions are conceived as time-savers. A typewriter advertisement reads: "To save time is to lengthen life." All men are interested in living longer but they are more immediately interested in doing more in less time.

The fast clipper ship, and more recently the steamship, the railroad, the automobile and the airship were all conceived in the cause of saving time. The cotton gin, the farm tractor, the harvesting machine, the telephone, the radio—all the countless labor-saving and production-increasing machines in the mills of the world and the various stages of the printing press—were adopted by the world because they saved time.

During the early years of modern industrialism labor opposed the adoption of labor-saving machines because workers feared the machines would deprive them of work. They soon learned that the machines were directly instrumental in creating more and better work. Today labor welcomes the invention of a machine which will perform a menial task quicker and perhaps better than can be done by hand.

Much is heard about the trend to the "white collar" job. Perhaps there has been a drift away from manual labor, but labor goes where it can find work. If there is a tendency toward the mental and clerical occupations it has been because there is more work of that kind. When a machine is evolved that produces the work of a hundred workmen it automatically increases the number of men required to market its product.

EXAMPLE

A Southern bishop in a sermon in a church remote from his diocese recently made the statement:

"Being a Christian makes more converts to Christianity than preaching the gospel."

That is admirable preaching. What more effective work can preachers do than keep prominently in the minds of laymen the fact that example counts for more than precept in the religious life? It is true that being a Christian counts for more than preaching; but we need the right kind of preaching to remind us, and keep reminding us, of the fact.

In other words, the bishop preached a better sermon than is likely to be preached by a hotel salesman, realtor, labor agitator, politician or reformer preaching for pennies for uplift. The fact that this particular pulpit was occupied by a person instead of by any sort of professional rattle-braiser resulted in the congregation hearing a good sermon.

It is another justification of the practice of keeping the preachers in the pulpit and keeping others out.

Speaking of toms, there never can be any going back on sunshine.

Charlie Chaplin complains that England cared nothing about him 17 years ago. The American colonists made the same complaint.

A good kicker has more friends on the gridiron than on the diamond.

"You'll seem so far off," she told him, over coffee. "I'll miss you."

"Not necessarily. Oakdale's only an hour or so away. You can't get rid of me as easily as that," he told her gayly. "And I'm trailing that job for you, Mary Lou. Trust your Uncle Larry!"

"Find me a job as companion," Mary Lou told him, trying to laugh. "You know—gentle and quiet! That's me! I can read aloud, Larry, and I think I can fetch footstools and carry trays and pull down window shades, for I've had quite a course of Aunt Adelaide, you know."

Larry had never met that plump and ailing lady, but Mary Lou had given him a full description. He laughed and then sobered abruptly.

"Joking aside," said Larry, "if we could get you a job like that it would be great."

"It's about all I can do," she conceded in a small voice. "Cheer up," ordered Larry, fiercely, "or I'll make you marry me and then, woman, you'll have your hands full!"

Clara and Howard returned from Oakdale late that evening and Clara's eyes were red while her tall, lean husband was much subdued. The next morning, early, Mary Lou went with them to the boat. Larry managed to be there and others of their friends, including several past business associates in a way of England, where they were to join the rest of the party which was going out to India on the construction work.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Mrs. Lewis Stackhouse entertained her mother, Mrs. Wilson, of Philadelphia, on Wednesday.

CAMPAIGN ENDS 8 P. M. SATURDAY NIGHT

DETAILS OF FINAL COUNT

In order to maintain the utmost secrecy as to the number of subscriptions turned in by each candidate this, the last week of The Courier's $10,000 Gold Campaign, the race will be brought to a close under a Sealed Ballot Box.

No subscription whatever will be accepted through the campaign department this week, but instead, candidates themselves will deposit their final collections in the SEALED BALLOT BOX located at the Bristol Trust Company of this town. And by so doing, no one, not even the campaign manager, or the publisher, can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

Locked and sealed, the Ballot Box has been placed in the lobby of the bank, where it will remain until the closing hour of the campaign, 8 o'clock, Saturday night, June 6th. When the final hour arrives the campaign will be declared closed. The ballot box will be returned to campaign headquarters, then the judges will break the seals, unlock the box and immediately thereafter, or as soon as votes can be issued on subscriptions contained therein, the last count will begin. The winners will be determined by merely adding the published vote totals, which will appear in Wednesday's issue of The Courier to reserve votes and those contained in the ballot box. There will be no waiting; no complicated count, but simply a matter of adding the vote totals and announcing the winners.

It is calculated that it will take some time, however, to canvass the findings in the box and to determine the winners. The official results will be published Monday in The Courier.

Heretofore out-of-town candidates have had the privilege of mailing their letters containing subscriptions from their home town as late as the closing hour of various "periods." This will not be permitted the last night of the campaign. ALL VOTES AND SUBSCRIPTIONS MUST BE IN THE SEALED BOX WHEN THE RACE IS CLOSED AT 8 O'CLOCK SHARP!

Out-of-Town Candidates

---Attention:

Out-of-town candidates should, where it is possible to do so, arrange to deposit envelopes in person at the bank, but where this can not be done, letters containing final remittance should be addressed to CAMPAIGN DEPARTMENT, THE BRISTOL COURIER, BRISTOL, PA., and plainly marked FOR THE SEALED BALLOT BOX —NOT TO BE OPENED. Particular care should be taken to post such letters in good time to reach this office before the final hour, and it is advisable that they should be under a special delivery stamp.

IMPORTANT NOTICE:

All subscriptions deposited in the Sealed Box must be accompanied by cash, money order or certified check for the full amount to cover. Personal checks up to $18 are acceptable, provided no two checks are signed by the same party. This is made in all fairness to all candidates and will be strictly adhered to.

LAST PERIOD

Embracing the last week, terminating June 6th, the following number of votes will be issued on subscriptions:

1 Year .....	3,000
2 Years .....	10,000
3 Years .....	20,000
4 Years .....	40,000
5 Years .....	80,000
6 Years .....	160,000

A special ballot good for 100,000 votes will be issued on every "club" of $18 turned in. This is in addition to regular number of votes allowed on every subscription secured up until 8 o'clock Saturday night, June 6th, the last hour of the campaign.

Candidates Must Certify and Attest to the Correctness of Their Count By

The Advisory Board

It is the sincere aim of this newspaper to conduct the election, from start to finish, in a fair, honorable and impartial manner. Every precaution has been taken to safeguard interests of participants and absolute honesty in all dealings is guaranteed. However, not all wisdom lies with any one man or institution, and for that reason, an Advisory Board has been decided upon, whose functions shall be to decide any question of sufficient moment that might happen to arise during the competition and from which a committee shall be selected to act as judges and count the votes the last night of the election, names announced below:

LESTER D. THORNE, Sec.-Treas., Bristol Trust Co.

SCHOOL CHILDREN VIE IN ESSAY CONTESTS

Street Safety Rewards Are Life and Happiness,
Is Decision

PRIZES ARE IN CASH

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—Taking the preamble to the Constitution of the United States as their cue, upwards of 700,000 school children from all parts of the country seem virtually agreed that "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" are the greatest rewards for observing street and highway safety rules. This was said at the offices of the Highway Education Board today upon the closing of its tenth national street and highway safety campaign which has been conducted this spring in elementary schools throughout the country.

The campaign for school children consisted of an essay contest on the subject: "My Rewards for Observing Street and Highway Safety Rules," and the Board has been receiving essays since the beginning of May. A preliminary reading of many of the essays received and the almost unvarying unanimity with which the competitors listed the above-mentioned rewards as among the most important, according to the Board, would indicate a general trend toward uniform safety education methods in all sections of the country.

The general argument followed is that the observance of traffic rules gives the individual life and limb with which he is at liberty to pursue his happiness, whereas failure to observe such rules will gain him nothing but a cot in the hospital. Even if an accident is not fatal, many children wrote, much of the individual's liberty is taken away for a more or less lengthy period of time and he may be deprived of his ability to the pursuit of happiness for the remainder of his life.

Many of the children listed other rewards, such as a clear conscience, the knowledge that they were aiding motorists and traffic officers by observing safety rules and the resultant pleasure which this knowledge brings, and the happiness which they bring to their parents by returning home each day safe and sound. A number of the children indulged in flights of fancy, envisioning large sums of money as rewards from fond fathers and mothers of children they would save, while one boy announced that his study and observance of traffic rules and regulations would bring a future reward by making it possible for him to become a traffic policeman when he grows to manhood. A girl from the middlewest announced her intention of becoming a teacher in later life so that she could teach children the importance of observing traffic safety rules.

In conjunction with the essay contest, the Board conducted a safety lesson contest for teachers on the subject: Teaching the Rewards of Careful Conduct on Streets and Highways. To the writer of the best lesson in each state the Board will award a Certificate of Honor, and for the three best lessons submitted throughout the country prizes of $500, $300, and $200 will be presented. The winner of first prize will also receive a trip to Washington with all expenses paid.

For the essays by pupils, state prizes of $15, $10, and $5, and gold, silver and bronze medals will be given. The number of third prizes allotted to each state depends upon the school enrollment, ranging from one to 23. The best essay from each state is also entered in a national competition in which first prize is a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, at which time the winner is presented with a gold watch, while second and third prizes are gold watches. All prizes are donated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The essay contest has been open to pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 14 years of age and under. Teachers, to be eligible for the lesson contest must be teaching in the eighth or lower grades.

STATE NEWS

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—(INS)—When the state supreme court approved annexation of Mountville borough by the city of Allentown, it created plenty of work for City Engineer Earl W. Meckley here.

A number of streets in Mountville, some named, some nameless, must be given fitting appellations and Engineer Meckley admits he has a job on his hands.

The name of a street, he points out, does much to give the thoroughfare its character; it sticks to the street; identifies it and plays a prominent part in the lives of residents. Either they like it and are proud of it or they dislike it and resent it.

And street names, Meckley believes, should be plain, easy to remember but not trite. All of which complicates his problem. For it might be easy to perpetuate historic names, a common device, provided they are easy to pronounce. Historic names around here, however, have a tendency to run to things like "Hokendauqua" or "Kola-

The Croydon Memorial parade started from Bristol Pike, Croydon Manor, over the Pike to Cedar avenue to State Road to the public school, led by the Bugle Corps of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, followed by the Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary of the Joseph Schumacher Post, Girl Scouts, Red Ladies, Boy Scouts. Many decorated cars were in line. Every home along the route was a symbol of Americanism.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beale, of State Road and Patterson avenue, entertained on Wednesday of last week their son, Elwood, and wife and daughter, Hope, of Tacony. On Friday they motored to Chalfont and were guests of Mrs. Beale's mother.

Allen Gleason, of Maple Shade, while working on a building, injured his leg by striking it with a hatchet. "Ben" Girard, of Patterson avenue, has accepted a position in Washington, D. C.

Charles English on Thursday while working on State Road tried to open a barrel of pitch which exploded, covering him with pitch; but was fortunate not to have his face injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith and family, of Philadelphia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peoples, of Cedar avenue, over the week-end.

A Man's a Man---Or Is He a Tailor's Dummy?

Men Always Have Insisted Their Women Be Beautiful, but Now That the "Shoe Is on the Other Foot"
They Don't Like It for a Cent

By WINIFRED BLACK

HE'S Captain of a well known football team.

Nice fellow, good player, but no Adonis.

The other night he went to a party, and at the party he met rather a pretty girl.

The girl asked him if he was fond of sports.

"Well, yes," he said "I am."

"Are you fond of football?" said the rather pretty girl.

"Well," said the football Captain, "I've seen a good deal of it, but whether you might say I'm fond of it or not."

"I'm crazy about football. I haven't seen this year's team, and they say the Captain is going to be here tonight, but I don't want to meet him; they tell me he's as homely as a mud fence."

"Oh," said the football Captain, and he was hurt about it, really hurt.

He says he doesn't mind in the least. Any girl who'd judge a man by his looks isn't worth minding, but it's easy to see that he was really quite put out about it.

And all the rest of the team plan to give that girl the go-by at all the parties.

The idea of a girl liking or disliking a man because he's good looking or ugly—

A man's a man, isn't he? Or is he just a tailor's dummy, or a wax figure for a hairdresser's window?

Yes, yes, gentlemen, go on—you interest us strangely.

Here you men have been falling in love with women for generations, and little did you care whether they had sense enough to go in when it rained or character enough to be mentioned.

All you wanted was a pair of soft eyes, a provoking smile, a good figure or a coaxing way with her—she might be a fool or a wanton, or just a plain little gold-digger, what was that to you?

All you wanted was charm. And after you got it—you went around blinding to other women that your wife was very pretty and very good, but you did wish she had brains in her head.

And now the shoe is on the other foot—and how you great, big, strong, silent men do hate to hear about it.

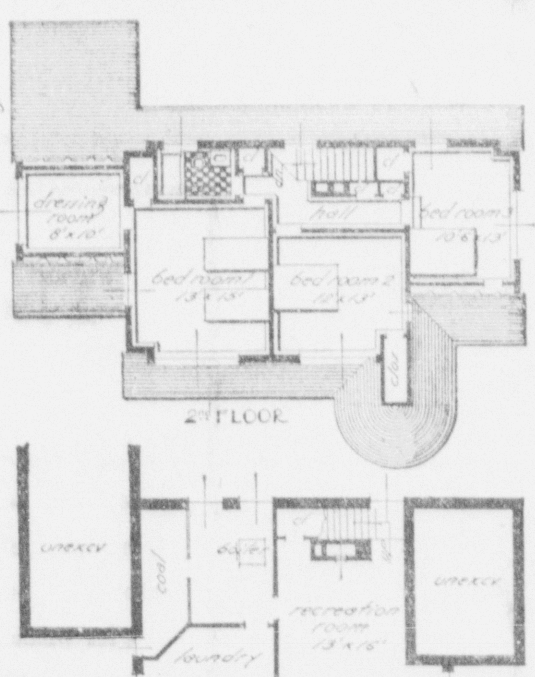

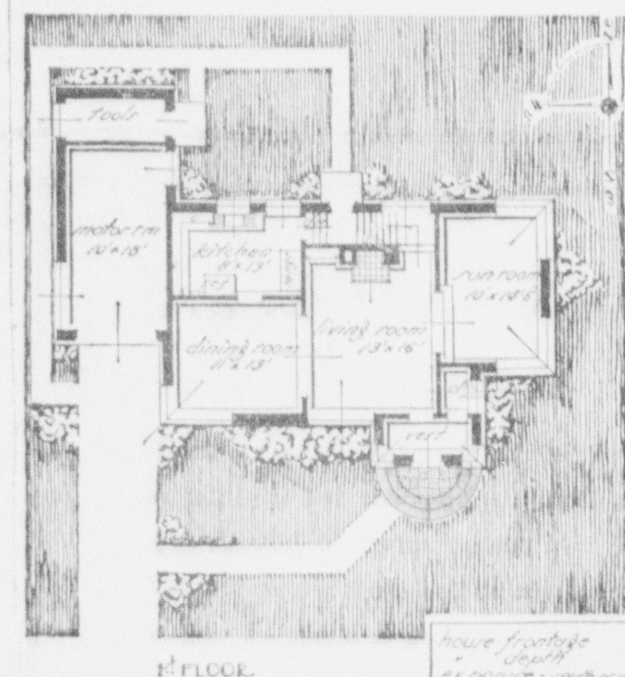

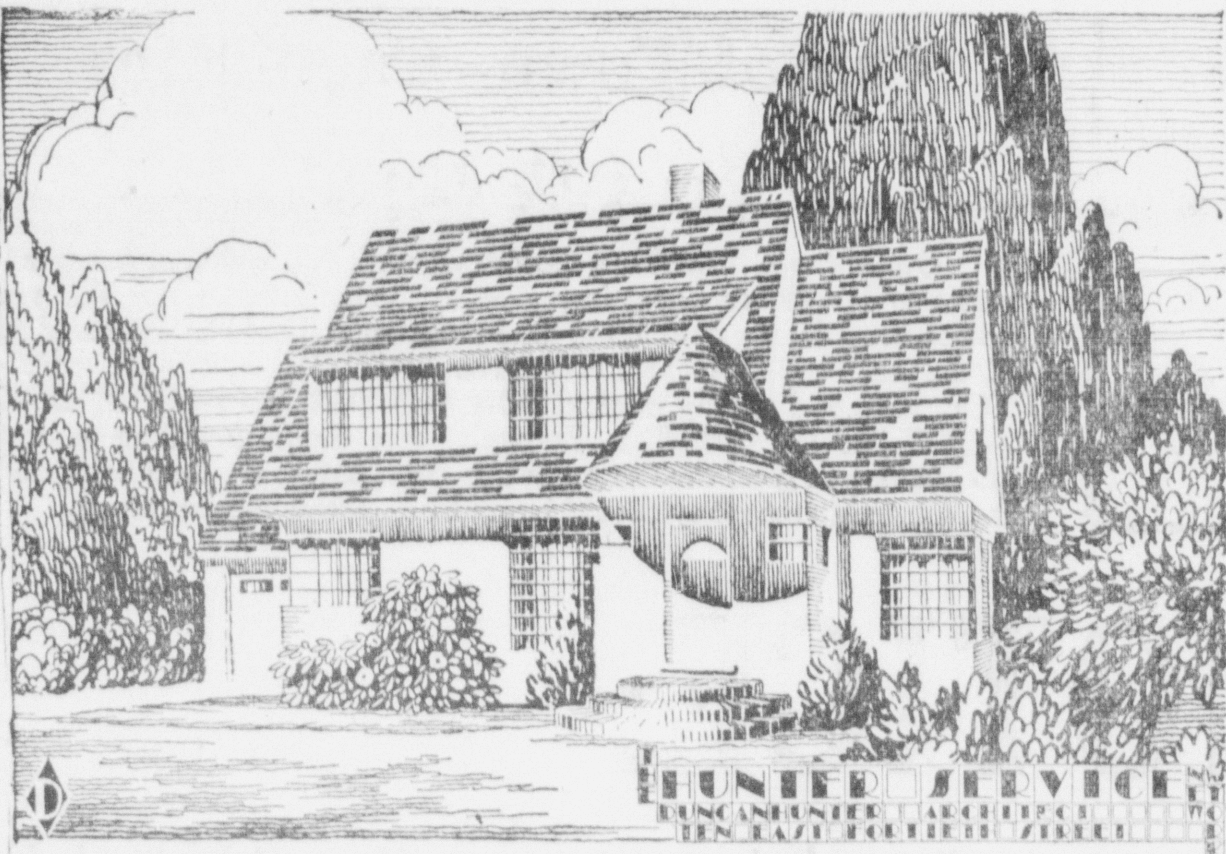

If you don't believe it girls, just mention the name of a good-looking actor, or a good-looking doctor, or a good-looking garbage man, for that matter, in a crowd of "regular fellows," and listen to the few choice remarks it will be your privilege to hear.

Women really are cats about each other at times—we all know that but—

Wow, wow—what gentlemanly voice was that raised in reproachful protest?

THE SHADO

THE SHADO

The Modern house is the livable house—it has been called—and rightly so—a machine for living. The design of the Modern house starts with the plan, it is a machine for living and the rooms and all details must be arranged to that end. The house exists for us—not as for the house, so it must meet our needs. The housekeeping element is a vital factor, waste space, waste steps, improper location of doors and windows, placement of fixtures and equipment—all must undergo the acid test. Rooms must have sunlight, air and ventilation—this means large windows well placed. The stairs must serve all rooms and the rear entrance direct. Closets must be large and a Dressing Room is very desirable off the main Bed Room. The construction of the Modern house requires permanent materials so as to avoid expensive replacements. This design of the house must be attractive—it is nothing short of criminal to assemble good materials into a poor design. Taste costs nothing and is worth everything.

The Shado meets the specifications above outlined, it is as practical and as modern as your motor car. It provides—Basement: Recreation room, laundry, heater and coal space.

First Floor: Entrance vestibule with coat closet, living room, sun room, dining room, kitchen, motor room and a small room for garden tools.

Second Floor: Three bed rooms, bath, dressing room and closets.

Ceiling Heights: Basement, seven feet; first floor, eight feet; second floor, eight feet.

Exposure: The plans as shown are for a lot facing south or west. For a lot facing north or east the plans should be reversed.

Lot Size: House frontage, 49 feet; side clearance, left 3 feet, right 8 feet; lot frontage, minimum 60 feet.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

We are two boys, 18. Neither of us has had many dates with girls. We are invited to a party which we would call wild and our companions are to be girls who drink and pet. Should we accept this invitation and, if so, should we have our parents' consent?

COUPLE OF KIDS:

COUPLE OF KIDS: Why should you need to consult your parents about a party when you have your doubts concerning it? Use your own judgment and I think that you will find yourselves somewhere else on the evening of the party. Anyhow, I can't see your parents permitting you to go to a "wild party" after you have told them just what kind of an affair it is to be.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I'm a girl in my teens and I like a boy a few years older than myself. My mother does not like him very well. She wants me to go with another boy whom I do not like. Would you advise me to go with the fellow my mother wants me to or the one I like?

FLOSSY:

FLOSSY: Is there any definite reason why your mother should not approve of the young man? If there is not, then I should advise you to follow the dictates of your heart.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am a boy in my middle teens and go with a girl about the same age. Something has broken our friendship several times, but we are going together again. There is a carnival in our section and I would like to know if it would be proper for me to take her to it?

There is another girl jealous of me for whom I do not care in the least. What would be the best way to get rid of her?

RED:

RED: Yes, I think that it would be a nice gesture to take the girl to the carnival, provided, of course, that her mother approves. As to the other girl, if she has no legitimate reason to be jealous of you, why then there is no need to worry. Tell your girl-friend the truth about her and then whatever happens will not matter, as she will be forewarned.

BORN and reared on a farm—de-

BORN and reared on a farm—deprived of companions—Ellen was thirty—when Jim Baker came from the city for rest—came like Prince Charming into her lonely, barren life.

So tired—so worried, he looked. And yet so strikingly handsome—for all his forty odd years. Small wonder Ellen thrilled. Here at last was a man—needing her care—maybe her love!

With warm-hearted kindness—she brought peace to his troubled mind—and a glowing light into his eyes. Anxiously, she waited—prayed for him to speak—to ask for the love she was frantic to give.

He did speak—but not the words she wanted to hear. "I'm a widower," he said. "My children—they need a mother." "Oh!" Ellen choked—dejected. "But," he cried—"You're so good—I—I—need you too."

Her last chance for happiness—Ellen consented. Off to the city she went—not to a bride's nest—a home she had dreamed of planning—building herself. But to a long-established dwelling—where every piece of furniture—curtain—carpet—where everything was a phantom of another woman!

Bravely, she sought to win the love of those children—modern rebels who resented her presence. Soon Jim ran back to his old friends—leaving her alone—for nights—for weeks at a time.

Bitterness crept into her heart. Then came the terrible night—Jim gone—the youngest child sick—the other two out—galavanting around. Starved for love that Fate had seemed to deny her—she sobbed in defeat—decided to leave—forever—WHEN—

Almost without warning—a climax broke into Ellen's life... A tremendous climax that brought those children home—crying into her arms—glad to call her "mother." A thunderous climax that shook Jim's very soul—brought him to her—asking forgiveness—begging for the noblest love that woman holds for man.

New Refuge Planned For Bucks County S. P. C. A.

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—Trustees of the Bucks County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have learned that one of their most serious handicaps will be removed.

Required to vacate the property now occupied as an animal refuge, the society was at a loss how to procure another, when the Pennsylvania S. P. C. A. agreed to loan the county society sufficient money to purchase a suitable property at Lahaska, and take a mortgage on it.

The new property is said to be ideal for the purpose and almost certain to advance in value. Trustees expressed to Mrs. David N. Fell, Jr., their appreciation of her efforts which induced the Pennsylvania society to take this generous action.

Later the county society will attempt to raise funds to pay off the mortgage so that its meagre annual funds may be used to promote its educational and other work.

Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am a boy of 19 in love with a girl one year my senior, and every time I look at another girl she gets mad at me. But she goes with other boys. She says she loves me but doesn't act like it. What must I do—let her go on with the boys and me stay at home or just quit?
J. J.
J. J., What do you mean by asking whether you should let the girl go out with boys while you stay at home? No wonder the girl treats you as she does. Assert yourself or else give the girl up. But for heaven's sake don't continue to be the sorry creature you describe yourself to be. Tame the girl, she will probably like it, or else you will quickly be rid of her. Every time she goes out with a boy, just get yourself a date for the evening. If she insists that there is no harm in her dates, then surely the same applies to you.

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am a girl 20 and very much in love with a young man who does not seem to care for me the way I thought he would. He seldom comes to see me, although he has told me he really loved me and wanted to marry me in June. He has always introduced me as his fiancée to his friends and has asked whether if he could marry me. Would you advise me to ask him to come to see me and talk it over or just go ahead and forget him?
ELSA.

ELSA: You have a right to know just what is what and so I would advise you to do as you have suggested. See the young man and throw things out. There may be some misunderstanding or gossip that has caused all the trouble. If he has changed, then there is time to take up new friends and new interests. If you don't do this, you will constantly be wondering for the rest of your life, just what really was the reason for the young man's change of heart.

WHO

will fill the position you have to offer in the best manner? Plenty of applicants to choose from if you advertise in the

BALL PLAYERS BETTER SAYS FAMOUS PITCHER

Otis Crandall, One-Time Baseball Highlight, Gives His Views

TELLS OF DIFFERENCE

NEW YORK, June 2.—(INS)—Otis Crandall, famous old-time pitcher, admits that present-day ball players are superior to the diamond greats of yesterday.

Otis is the famous "Doc" Crandall of another generation. He was a pitcher with the Giants back in the days when the immortal Matty, "Hooks" Wiltse, "Red" Ames, Roger Bresnahan, Fred Snodgrass, "Moose" McCormick, "Cy" Seymour, Buck Herzog—great figures of a great club—were part of McGraw's machine.

"Doc" was one of the greatest relief pitchers in the business in those days and a great pinch hitter—good enough to be used in the pinch by McGraw for four years. That's how he got his tag of "Doc."

"The writin' boys hung that on me because I helped to doctor up so many sick games," he explains.

That was more than a score of years ago; since then Otis has traveled the byways and highways of the diamond trails as player, coach, manager, owner and now he comes back to the big town with a big league club. He is one of the coaches with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Crandall is forty-four years old and he was about twenty-five years ago he joined up with the Giants. A quarter of a century—baseball has changed mightily since then, grown from a swaddling infant to the commercial giant of today.

But baseball has changed for the better, he tells you, and although it might be heresy for an old timer to say as much, he believes the present generation of ball players are better than the old crop.

"They get better training, better preparation, are better conditioned and have better surroundings," he explains. "In the old days it was hard to keep a battling gang in shape, now it's part of the system."

The biggest difference between the game today and yesterday—that's a cinch.

"It was a more scientific game in the old days," he said without hesitation. "McGraw would work for a single run back in those days, and that lone tally might mean the ball game. But today, say, that's a laugh. It's power today, the ability to sock. Any bush leaguer can make the big league grade so long as he can hit the ball out of the park."

Crandall has a son, James, now 18, going to the University of Southern California. The boy is a pitcher, like his old man, and is making a baseball tour of the Orient.

Pinchot Attacks Power Trusts and Utilities

today by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie (D) of Maryland, who has just as vigorous views on prohibition and states' rights as Pinchot has on power control. Ritchie is to preside over this afternoon's round table discussion, and he, unwillingness of the governors to dislike Pinchot, is impatient with the unwillingness of the governors to discuss real issues in their annual gathering.

Originally, Gov. Pinchot was to have spoken about "timber needs of the future," a thoroughly innocuous subject. It is said he fairly snorted with disgust when he learned of the topic assigned him. He promptly prepared a speech on the utilities by way of answer.

While his gubernatorial colleagues listened attentively, Gov. Pinchot lashed out at the power interests with typical Pinchot directness and gusto.

"We are," he said, "facing a new threat to the rule of the people established by the founders of this republic. The public utilities underlie that threat."

"The power of the public utilities is manifest in every political assembly. From the Congress to the smallest town meeting, and from the Government of the least political unit to that of the largest state. Indeed, it reaches to the National Government itself."

"Far and away the strongest political power in my own Commonwealth is the power of the organized public utilities, and I venture to guess that there is hardly a single state where the pressure of public utility lobbyists upon the Legislature and the Government is not known."

"In Pennsylvania the Republican party is in power. The public utilities do not dominate the Republican party, or rather the men and women of whom it is composed, but they own and operate the party machinery. They control the State chairman, the national committeeman, and other officials of the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee, and these officials are busily occupied in doing the will of the public utilities and in defeating the will of the voters as expressed at the polls."

"In the primary of May, 1930, the Republicans of Pennsylvania, and in the November election the voters of the whole State issued their orders that the Public Service committee be abolished and replaced by a fair rate board, and that the public service law be revised so as to break the stranglehold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus, and other public utilities on the cost of living."

"Every item in this program has been opposed, and much of it has been defeated, by the public utilities with the assistance of party leaders acting against the mandate of the voters which they were in honor bound to accept and carry out."

"Let me be understood. This is not a matter of good parties or bad parties, but of interests which use parties in their business. If the Democratic party were in power in Pennsylvania instead of the Republican, I have no doubt its party machinery also would be controlled by the organized public utilities of the state."

"The political power of the utilities is the direct result of the failure to regulate them on the one hand, and of their almost incredible expansion on the other."

"Beginning less than two generations ago with nothing, the electric industry has today a total investment of approximately twelve billion dollars. It ranks fourth or fifth among all our industries in invested capital."

STATE NEWS

SCRANTON, Pa.—(INS)—If the church is to succeed completely and to minister adequately to human needs it must of necessity concern itself with the problem of mental hygiene. Dr. George T. Baskett, superintendent of the Retreat Mental Hospital told members of the Scranton Ministerial Association here recently.

"The paths of religion and mental hygiene," said he, "frequently make contact with each other. They are headed toward the same goal, although approaching it from a somewhat different angle. The object of each is to bring about correct ways of living with resultant production of a personality and character that will be in full adjustment with the whole environment."

WHITE HAVEN, Pa.—(INS)—If Thomas B. Gallagher were an author, working on space rates, and could maintain his present standard of reward, his financial future would be rosy.

Gallagher, on St. Patrick's Day, uttered two words here and was paid $125 each for them.

Gallagher owns a shop next door to the White Haven Savings Bank. His two words were "Bank Robbers!" when three youths and a girl attempted to hold up the bank, lost their nerve and fled.

Gallagher's shout roused pursuit of the quartet, one of whom is now in the eastern penitentiary. For the warning, bank directors voted him a resolution of thanks and a cash reward of $250.

HARRISBURG, June 2.—Withdrawal of the cards of 123 drivers during the week ending May 28, the state bureau of motor vehicles announced here today, brought the total number of revocations this year to 1,165 and total suspensions up to 1,259.

Cards of 58 drivers were revoked during the past week, the bureau announced, and 65 drivers' cards were suspended. At the same time, 104 motorists were restored driving privileges. Withdrawals last week were 25 less than the week previous.

STATE COLLEGE, June 2.—William Potter Lewis, librarian of the noted Olin Library at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., has been appointed librarian at Pennsylvania State College and will take up his duties here November 1. President Ralph D. Hetzel announced here today.

Conklin's Sport Sparks

By LES KONKLIN

International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, June 2.—The comeback of Cleveland and the Chicago Cubs featured the past week in the major league baseball races.

Bolstered by the acquisition of third baseman Willie Kamm from the Chicago White Sox, the Indians won all of their seven contests, including Sunday's.

The Cubs, winning eight out of nine games, advanced from fifth to third place.

The rise of the Cubs and of Brooklyn presages a four-cornered battle between these clubs and the Cardinals and Giants for the National League pennant. The Robins, who threaten to bloom in June along with the roses, grabbed four out of five during the week and knocked the Giants out of the league lead.

Just a year ago Brooklyn, coming from nowhere, vaulted into first place and started the Giants on their slide to sixth place. Just now the dodgers are knocking the cover off the ball, Luque is helping out with the pitching, and Gordon Slade, who accepted thirteen chances in Brooklyn's first game with Boston yesterday, is doing better than Glenn Wright at shortstop.

The Cardinals, winning five out of eight games, gained one game over the Giants, who broke even in eight contests. Boston lost six out of eight and dropped from third place to fourth. Pittsburgh dropped six out of nine and flopped from fourth place all the way to seventh. The Phillies won three out of five while Cincinnati, consistent if nothing else, lost seven out of nine.

Connie Mack's Athletics, not at all flustered by the snapping of their long winning streak, won six out of nine and gained ground on the Yankees and Senators. Washington annexed four out of seven. The Yanks took only three out of eight and yielded second place to Walter Johnson's men.

Detroit and St. Louis continued to flounder badly, the Tigers losing five out of six and the Browns dropping four out of five. The White Sox broke even in six starts while the Red Sox lost five out of eight.

Lewis, who succeeds Miss Sabra W. Vought, has served in the New York State and Baylor university libraries and has the reputation of building up one of the most useful land grant college libraries in the country at the University of New Hampshire.

He will prove a distinct asset to Penn State. President Hetzel said in announcing the appointment.

SPRING GROVE, June 2.—(INS)—Hang up a marksman's record for Edward H. Zartman, farmer living near here.

Working in a field with his son, Edwin, Zartman saw several groundhogs playing about a stump. He got a shotgun, fired at the animals, killed three with the first shot.

YORK, June 2.—(INS)—Add prize fish stories of the season. Morgan Crumling, of Mt. Wolf, caught a "goldfish" weighing 1½ pounds in a backwater of the Susquehanna near here. Similar in appearance to the ordinary goldfish, Crumling's was the largest of its kind local anglers can recall.

HARRISBURG, June 2.—(INS)—One advantage of "midget" automobiles, state highway department employees will claim, is the ease with which they are righted after a crash.

One of them was hit by a truck opposite the highway department substation here. It landed on its side. Nonchalantly, the driver emerged, lit a cigarette, reached down and set the "midget" right side up, drove off.

LOCK HAVEN, June 2.—(INS)—An injunction, sought by half a dozen poor districts of Clinton county to restrain county commissioners from proceeding with plans for erection of a county home, has been denied by Judge E. H. Baird.

Memories of an Immortal

By HARDIN BURNLEY

© 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

WITH the first of the world's "Big Four" golf classics—the British Open—under way, thoughts of links lovers everywhere turn instinctively to Bobby Jones, who is far from Scotch shores in person but whose spirit must be hovering over the moors at Carnoustie. The retired "Emperor" never played that course; indeed, it's the first time Macdonald Smith's native links have been the scene of an international championship. But the British Open itself—way our Bobby won that in 1926, '27 and '30. He failed but once and that was on the occasion of his debut at St. Andrews ten years ago when he picked up in disgust at the 11th hole after rounds of 78 and 74. Six years later he triumphed on the same course and last Spring he won the British Amateur at St. Andrews. He also mastered the fields at St. Ann's and at Hoylake, scene of the first of his four major championships last year.

Following his inauspicious 1921 introduction to British Open play, English and Scotch critics generally were reluctant to concede the true greatness of Jones. Much talk used to be heard of Bobby's "boyish temper" and "nervous shortcomings." But as the seasons rolled by and Jones moved from victory to victory with the precision of genius, even the most reactionary of British critics hailed the "Champion of Champions" in the making.

Carnoustie will also miss the personality and play of Walter

Hagen this week. For the second year in succession, this Old Master of the British Open (he won it four times) decided not to go overseas. Uncle Sam, however much he misses Bobby and Walter, will be represented by some stars, any one of whom is likely to win British laurels that were once the "Haig's" or Jones's. They include Gene Sarazen, Macdonald Smith, Joe Turnesa, Horton Smith, Lee Diegel, Johnny Farrell, Tony Manero and George Voigt.

John Bull has most of his best golfers in the field, including the brilliant Henry Cotton, who recently took the measure of some of Uncle Sam's aces in the Southport Open. English odds should make Cotton a favorite, even over Sarazen, at Carnoustie.

There'll Be Something New Tomorrow

EVERY time you feel like muttering "There's nothing new under the sun," take up your daily paper and read thru the advertisements. Chances are, you'll change your mind. Here's a new wrinkle in sanitary plumbing. . . there's a new kind of carpet that should have been thought of long ago . . . here's a decidedly better way of washing delicate fabrics.

These things concern you intimately—they affect your life and the manner in which you live it. They are new things under the sun. And advertisements are the arms with which they reach out and touch you. Read the advertisements regularly. There'll be something new tomorrow . . . and the day after . . . and the day after that. Something you wouldn't want to miss.
